HISTORY OF THE SCHOOL OF LAW

The School of Law was authorized by the trustees as a department of Cumberland University on February 22, 1847. At various subsequent sittings of the board the plan of organization was perfected, and in the month of October, 1847, the first term opened, with one professor and seven students present. Judge Abram Caruthers was the professor. He was called from the bench of the Circuit Court to this new work by the Board of Trustees. Robert L. Caruthers, who for many years was President of the Board, provided the first classroom in his own office.

The school was at once a success. Judge Nathan Green, Sr., then one of the Supreme Judges of the State, was called to assist Judge Caruthers in the conduct of the school in 1848. He did not resign as a member of the Supreme Court until 1852. Judge Bromfield L. Ridley became a Professor of Law in 1848, and served until 1852.

In 1856, Nathan Green, Jr., was elected a professor, the prosperity of the school requiring the services of three instructors. These three men continued as the faculty until the beginning of the Civil War in 1861. At that time there were one hundred and eighty law students in attendance. Judge Abram Caruthers died during the war. Judge Nathan Green, Sr., survived the war and assisted his son, Nathan Green, Jr., in the revival of the school, but died in 1866. He was succeeded that year by the Hon. Henry Cooper, and two years thereafter, Judge Cooper having resigned, Judge Robert L. Caruthers, who was for many years on the Supreme Bench of the State, was elected to fill the vacancy. He resigned in 1881 because of advancing years and feeble health, and Dr. Andrew B. Martin succeeded him, serving until his death, May 19, 1920.

Judge Nathan Green, Jr., having taught as a Professor in the School of Law for more than sixty-three years, died on February 17, 1919. He was succeeded by Judge Edward E. Beard, who served until his death, June 18, 1924. In July, 1920, W. R. Chambers was elected as the successor of Dr. Martin, and in October, 1923, Judge Albert Williams was selected as a Professor of Law.

Judge A. B. Neil was elected Professor of Law in September, 1930, and was made Dean in January, 1935. Judge Neil was graduated from the School of Law of Cumberland University in September, 1896. He served for many years as a Criminal Judge and later as Circuit Judge and as a member of the State Supreme Court. He is now Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Tennessee.

Judge Frank T. Fancher was a member of the law faculty from September, 1935, to June, 1937; re-elected, September, 1939. In September, 1941 Judge Fancher became Dean. He graduated from this law school under the teaching of Judge Green and Dr. Martin and had much experience in the practice of law in Tennessee and Florida. In 1915-1916, again in 1937 and in 1940-41 he served by appointment of three different governors as a Special Judge on the Supreme Bench of Tennessee. For over twelve years he was a member of the Board of Law Examiners of Tennessee.

In June 1932, Judge Sam B. Gilreath, a 1925 graduate of the School of Law, became a Professor of Law and has served continuously since. He was named later as Dean of the school. He is the author of the latest revision of Caruthers History of a Law Suit, a widely used work on Civil Practice.

Following the second World War, Judge Gilreath and Allison B. Humphreys, Jr., served as professors in the School of Law. Professor Humphreys resigned in June, 1946, to take over responsibilities in the Attorney General's Office of the State of Tennessee.

Thus far in the history of the School of Law the plan of instruction has been at first one year of legal education, and then, as this plan progressed, there came a time when this emphasis on textbook instruction for the one year was supplemented by an emphasis on casebook study for a second year, and this became a requirement of the University. When the reorganization of the University in 1946 was effected, this two-year plan of law study was replaced by a three-year plan of study and the requirement of two years of pre-legal work as a basis of entrance into the School of Law. Those who were engaged in the two-year plan on July 10, 1946, were carried through to the completion of their work. All who entered thereafter entered under the new regulations set up at that time.

The School of Law, as it is now constituted, requires three years as a minimum of pre-legal study and three years of study in the School of Law as a requirement for the degree of Bachelor of Laws. Every phase of the work in the School of law has been set up on a standard basis.

In September, 1947, Arthur A. Weeks joined the faculty as Professor of Law and was made Dean in September, 1948. Bernard B. Bailey joined the faculty as a Professor of Law in August, 1948, and was made Acting Dean of the Law School in September, 1954, upon the resignation of Dean Weeks, who returned to the practice of law. William H. Stanford, Jr., became a member of the faculty as Associate Professor of Law in September, 1949, and returned to private practice in 1952, at which time Mr. Otis J. Bouwsma joined the faculty as Associate Professor of Law. In September, 1953, Mr.

Grissim H. Walker became a member of the faculty as Associate Professor of Law, and in September, 1954, Chancellor W. W. Herron joined the faculty as Professor of Law.

In February, 1949, the School of Law of Cumberland University was approved by the American Bar Association, provisional approval having been granted at that time. Full approval was granted by the American Bar Association in September of 1952. In November of 1952 the School was registered by the Board of Regents of the State of New York. In December of 1952 the school was granted membership in the Association of American Law Schools. This gained for the school every recognition possible for an American law school.

OUR DEDICATION

Cumberland University and those who have passed through its doors have played a significant role in the destiny of the Nation as well as the South. Names of its graduates have appeared on the rolls of Congress, the Supreme Court and other divisions of our national and state governments.

This honor roll of distinguished graduates serves as a reminder of Cumberland's heritage and as a precedent to us and the many students yet to come.

It is a distinct privilege to dedicate the 1955 edition of the PHOENIX to the great men on the Honor Roll for the School of Law.

CHAIRMAN EDWARD POTTER, JR.

THE CHAIRMAN SPEAKS

place on this board. As a business man, however, I know the value to my field of endeavor of well-trained minds and the development of character. I came in as a pinch-hitter because Cumberland University has hung on tenaciously to the educational creed which has fostered the spirit of free enterprise. It has a character in itself well worth preserving.

It follows that good schools produce people equipped with a good supply of factual information, ability to live and work with people of all types, potential capacity to apply these two factors, sound reasoning ability, and a solid sense of values. All of these prerequisites Cumberland fulfills, plus training in character building. It instills into the minds of its students an appreciation for the requirement of moral law as well as for statute laws, and implants in them the fact that one goes to school for the purpose of fitting himself for living up to the responsibilities of life.

Cumberland University has been time-tried and tested, and can be judged by the products it has turned out. Cumberland alumni may well be proud of their Alma Mater, and the entire community should give this great institution its staunch support.

EDWARD POTTER, JR.

One of the most rewarding experiences I have enjoyed in my lifetime has been my association with Cumberland University, an institution which has produced some of the outstanding leaders of our nation.

I am no educator, and I accepted this responsibility with reluctance as I felt that there are others more deserving and better equipped to fill a

PROFESSORS

Professors are respected souls . . . Albeit underpaid . . .
And not infrequently they are . . . Quite dignified and staid . . . Their learning is attested to . . . By two or three degrees . . . From highly rated colleges . . . Or universities . . . They lecture by the hour and . . . They carefully explain . . . The theories and facts there are . . .
To fill the student's brain . . . And in return they only ask . . . Obedience and truth . . . As part of their campaign to build . . . The character of youth . . . Professors are the persons who . . . Are plain and undisguised
. . . But whose superb abilities . . . Are seldom recognized.

LAW STUDENTS

No lawyer knows his law so well . . . Or finds it all so clear . . . As does the eager student who . . . Is in his freshman year . . . But as semesters slip away . . . And subjects grow intense . . . He is not quite so confident . . . Of his intelligence . . . For there are many theories . . . To mystify his brain . . . Including bailment and the right . . . Of eminent domain . . . Including common carriers . . . Insurance, sales and torts . . . As well as what is ethical . . . In all the different courts . . . And if at last he perseveres . . . He surely will agree . . . It takes a lot of studying . . . To earn an LL.B.

LAW LIBRARY

Reasoning is knowledge and knowledge is power. The library of over twenty thousand volumes provides the student with the tools of the legal profession.

All of the published opinions of the courts of last resort of all the states of the United States, together with the opinions of all the Federal courts, are found in the library.

The use of the books, the tools of the legal profession, is indispensable to a lawyer's progress.

The PHOENIX staff of 1955 has endeavored to produce a yearbook worthy of this, a great year at Cumberland University and representative of its superior student body.

We wish to thank you for your confidence in entrusting to us the responsibility for editing the 1955 PHOENIX. Though this has been a difficult task, it has nevertheless been a pleasure.

The cooperation of the faculty and of the student body has contributed immeasurably to the successful publication of this book.

It is our fondest hope that you will be pleased with this book and that as you peruse it again and again through the years, it will call to memory the pleasures and activities of this year at Cumberland University.

CUMBERLAND UNIVERSITY

M O O T C O U R T

In Moot Court the student has an opportunity to bring a legal action into court and try it before a judge and jury prior to his entering into actual practice. It is during these moot court sessions that the senior law students learn procedure and gain experience in preparing and trying cases. The cases are conducted according to actual court room practice and procedure, and afford invaluable experience in trial work. Freshmen and sophomore law students participate in trials as jurors.

ALMA MATER

On old Lebanon's western border,
Reared against the sky,
Proudly stands our Alma Mater,
As the years go by.
Forward ever be her watchword,
Conquer and prevail,
Hail to thee, our Alma Mater,
Cumberland, all hail.
Cherished by thy sons and daughters,
Sweeter memories throng,
Around our hearts, our Alma Mater,
As we sing this song.

SUNDAY SCHOOL

The University Bible Class is one of the oldest and most active organizations on the campus and goes far towards filling the religious needs of the students of this historic law school.

This class, well attended by the students and their families, has been ably taught for twenty-three years by Judge Sam B. Gilreath. The curriculum offered in this class consists of a chronological history of the Bible.

This organization recognizes those students each year who excel on the campuses of colleges and universities throughout the United States and Canada. Nomination to this honor is made by the Faculty. Selection is made on the basis of scholarship, extra-curricular activities and general contribution to the college. The number of qualifying students to which each school is entitled is governed by enrollment. The biography of each individual is printed in a bound volume entitled "Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities." This honor holds the highest esteem of any obtainable on the campus.

It is one of the purposes of the Grafton Green Senate to lead its members and its fellow students "to high scholarship and legal learning, and to surround them with an environment such that the tradition of the law and of the profession may descend upon them; to develop ability to work with others and increase capacity for work; to become dependable, honest, adaptable, to think straight and develop self-control; to become interested in good government, the honest administration of justice and oppose every activity which would undermine the principles of our Republic."

The purpose of the Fraternity shall be to form a strong bond among the members of the different classes at the various law schools; to form a strong link between the schools and their former students; to establish a widespread exchange for the interchange of business, information, and matters of common interest to the members of the Fraternity; to promote social and intellectual intercourse among its members; to aid the development of fraternal and brotherly sentiments; to cultivate a closer bond of friendship and the attainment of a higher and broader culture than that afforded by the regular college course; and to foster, under the influence of intimate friendships, those principles that tend to form a higher type of manhood.

As the 1955 PHOENIX goes to press, there are many who, in their own way, merit a few words of appreciation for their contributions of time and effort to the publication of this yearbook. Among those to whom I wish to show my sincere appreciation are:

Mr. Joe Jacobson, Business Manager for the 1955 PHOENIX, for a superior job with tremendous success in the procurement of advertisement to meet the increased cost of this yearbook.

Acting Dean Bernard B. Bailey and Professor Otis J. Bouwsma, the faculty advisors, for welcomed guidance, helpful counseling and sympathetic interest.

Mr. W. A. Benson, Jr., of Benson Printing Company, for his superlative cooperation and patience.

Those of Seat's Studio for prompt and excellent attention to the photographic needs.

Mr. Phillip Kiely, whose abilities as a photographer made possible the superb aerial view of Cumberland University.

To all of these and many more, I am deeply grateful.

A MEMORABLE YEAR

• Congratulations to the Student Body and Faculty of Cumberland University for completion of another outstanding year.

• The Staff of your annual has worked exceedingly hard to give you a superb book and one which portrays the highlights of memorable activities.

• Neither time, effort nor expense have been spared to provide you with a permanent record, attractively presented and complete in every detail.

• To preserve the photography and literary efforts of the Staff, the best grades of material have been combined with skilled workmanship to provide the finest quality yearbook.

• We are proud that the 1955 Staff elected us to help design, print and bind "The 1955 Phoenix." We have earnestly endeavored to fulfill the confidence placed in us.
